The CIPS Program

Who are Certified International Property Specialist (CIPS) designees? They are professionals who, as individuals, have both practical experience in global real estate transactions and have successfully completed the CIPS Institute.

The Institute is a focused 5-day program, administered by NAR (National Association of REALTORS®) Global, that incorporates the vital elements of transnational transactions. Attendees study currency and exchange rate issues, cultural exchange factors, regional market conditions, investment performance, and tax and legal issues.

The CIPS education is valuable to a wide variety of professionals including U.S practitioners, non-U.S. practitioners, lenders, developers and Association Executives. CIPS designees enjoy CIPS Network membership privileges, international marketing and research services, as well as peer events.

The CIPS Path to Achieving the Designation

Education: You must complete 2 core courses, and 3 elective courses (below), and pass the examination given at the end of each course. To pass a course exam, you must earn a correct score of 80% or better.

Core Courses

- a) NAR - Global Real Estate: Local Markets (1 day)
- b) NAR - Global Real Estate: Transaction Tools (1 day)
- c) NAR - The Business of U.S. Real Estate (1 day)

Elective Courses

- d) NAR - Europe & International Real Estate
- e) NAR - Asia/Pacific & International Real Estate
- f) NAR - The Americas & International Real Estate

Designation Application: After completing your CIPS courses, you must submit a designation application documenting experience in international transactions. The application helps you identify 100 points required to earn the CIPS Designation and will be available at the Institute. Points can be earned by speaking other languages, possessing additional NAR designations, attending international conferences and seminars, and completing international transactions. Transactions must involve other cultures or countries and can include sales in your local market.

CIPS Courses in Costa Rica:

Core Courses:

Global Real Estate: Local Markets: Tuesday, August 14, 2018- This offers an overview of the international real estate business environment, including capital flow, currencies, government regulations and cultures.
